A Message from CUES Leadership

Dear CUES Community,

Fifty years ago, CUES began with a simple promise: school should be the place where potential meets opportunity. That's still the work. Across All Saints, Holy Name, and Sacred Heart, we pair strong academics with the support families need to keep kids learning. The welcome is universal; the standard is high; and the day-to-day is practical—great teaching, steady routines, and help that shows up when it matters.

Our model is straightforward: excellent instruction, backed by whole-family support. Teachers focus on reading, math, and the habits that make learning stick. Counselors and partners help families navigate housing, health care, and behavior so kids arrive ready to learn.

This year brought a moment worth celebrating. The Gathering, our premier annual fundraising event, shattered all previous records. Proof of how this community shows up. It raised the bar for what we can do together, just as our students raise the bar for themselves in the classroom. Your generosity turns into very ordinary miracles: a calmer classroom, a counselor at the right time, a high school acceptance that changes a path, and parents whose dream of a better life for their children come to fruition before their eyes.

An anniversary invites both gratitude and resolve. We're strengthening how we track and coordinate family support so help lands faster and nothing slips through the cracks. We're growing a teacher pipeline that reflects our neighborhoods. We're making our buildings safer and more welcoming. None of this is flashy. It's the quiet, disciplined work that lasts: teach well, notice early, respond quickly, tell the truth about results, and keep faith with the families who trust us.

Thank you for standing with CUES, for the first fifty years and the next fifty. We'll keep showing up for kids and doing the work, one focused classroom and one steady step at a time.

Our Academics

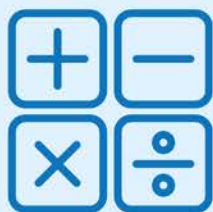

Our classrooms are seeing measurable progress. 65% of students improved in reading (3% growth from previous school year), and 59.3% improved in math (3.3% growth from previous year). Every percentage point reflects hours of practice, questions asked, and revision that builds skill—supported by teachers' clear goals, high expectations, and caring, targeted teaching.

STEAM

CUES students now have access to STEAM education at their schools, bringing hands-on science, technology, engineering, art, and math to every campus and strengthening our holistic model.

STEAM connects learning to life. Students investigate real problems, test ideas, and build and create through design thinking, robotics basics, digital media, and tools like 3D printers. They work in a hands-on structure that invites curiosity and persistence while strengthening problem-solving, collaboration, and communication—and they apply reading and math in real-world projects that make skills concrete and memorable.

For CUES students, STEAM also widens horizons. By seeing how technology and creativity work together, they develop career awareness—from healthcare and construction to energy, design, and tech—so each student can recognize pathways that match their interests and strengths. The result is confidence, belonging, and measurable growth grounded in authentic practice. It's learning that reduces barriers and opens pathways—where potential meets opportunity.

LIFT with Boys Town

At CUES, our model begins with the whole family, and students thrive when schools coordinate with the adults who shape their daily lives. That's why the CUES School System partners with Boys Town's LIFT program to address behavioral challenges with care and expertise.

Through LIFT, licensed professionals provide prevention and early identification, evidence-based counseling, teacher trainings, in-home family services, and parent education. Support is coordinated with caregivers so strategies used at school carry over at home, strengthening consistency and trust.

When behaviors require a response, we prioritize restorative practices over punitive discipline, repairing relationships, teaching skills that last, and keeping students connected to learning. At CUES, no student falls through the cracks: every child has access to the academic, social, emotional, and wraparound services they need to succeed.

Mental Health Therapy

CUES students and families have access to counseling and therapy at all three schools—All Saints, Holy Name, and Sacred Heart. This support enhances students' mental health, sustains their academic progress, and equips them with lifelong tools to care for their well-being.

When mental health needs are addressed, students focus, participate, and learn. Counseling helps stabilize attendance, strengthen self-regulation, and support the skills that lead to growth in reading, math, and beyond. The outcome we're working toward is clear: students who thrive academically and personally, and families who feel supported as their children grow into strong, caring leaders in our community.

Student & Family Support Services

Our model begins with the whole family. Because many obstacles lie beyond the classroom, CUES invests in family case management that meets each household with dignity and practical support. The CUES School System launched the Student and Family Support Services Program in 2018 to connect families with concrete resources: benefits enrollment, financial coaching, housing and utility assistance, transportation, legal assistance, and trusted health partners.

Working alongside caregivers, our staff builds actionable plans and coordinates services so students can arrive ready to learn. We stay in regular communication with the adults who shape each child's daily life, helping to solve problems early and reduce barriers that interrupt learning.

Support doesn't end at graduation. We stay in touch through high school and college/trade school, offering guidance and referrals as students navigate new systems and set long-term goals. The result is not only academic progress, but the formation of strong, caring leaders who contribute to their families and our community.

Cheers to the CUES Class of 2025

We're excited and proud to celebrate where our eighth-grade graduates are now. The CUES Class of 2025 is attending high school: 89% at private high schools, 9% at public high schools, and 2% homeschooled. Each path reflects students' hard work, family support, and the strong academic and wraparound foundation they built at CUES—confidence, belonging, and skills that carry them forward to thrive in what's next academically and personally.

And as they take flight, CUES helps nurture and connect their potential with opportunity so they can imagine a bright future, soar, and achieve. We're thrilled to see them enrolled in outstanding high schools. Even after they leave our nest, CUES stays close: celebrating wins, standing with them through challenges, and connecting them to the resources they need to succeed so they can fly even higher.

A Family's Path: From Dreams to Real Opportunity

When Oliva Pliego moved her family to North Omaha in 2012, she wondered if she'd made the right choice. Then she found Sacred Heart School and the CUES School System. In classrooms where rigorous academics meet a culture of belonging, her children flourished. Beyond the classroom, CUES built relationships with Oliva and her family—consistent check-ins, case management, and resources—so that support at school was reinforced at home.

Today, three of Oliva's children are in college, and her youngest is in 8th grade, preparing for high school. Oliva also graduated from the Financial Support Program & Financial Hope Collaborative, strengthening her family's financial stability and widening the runway for her children's goals. Now, she serves as the Kitchen Manager at Sacred Heart School, a role that reflects her commitment to the CUES community.

The CUES School System made my dreams possible by sending my children to college and ensuring a strong high school education. CUES brought stability to my family by connecting us to resources we needed. Because of those relationships and supports, the dreams I had for my children—and for our family as a whole—are becoming real.

Hearts of CUES Guild

The Hearts of CUES Guild is a membership community that stands with CUES students and families at All Saints, Holy Name, and Sacred Heart. Guild members support educational enrichment through theater, help fund school libraries, organize fundraising, and lead volunteer activities that strengthen our holistic model—rigorous instruction, a caring culture, and practical wraparound services that reduce barriers to learning. Aligned with the CUES School System’s mission to serve low-income families in Omaha through a comprehensive, whole-child approach, the Guild helps students thrive and break the cycle of poverty in our community.

CUES Young Professionals is a membership network for rising leaders who advance the CUES mission through advocacy, volunteering, and giving. Members support students and families at All Saints, Holy Name, and Sacred Heart—and enjoy networking with like-minded peers along the way.

Ways YP make an impact

Volunteer: Host supply/book drives at your workplace, faith community, alumni groups, neighborhood associations, or clubs to raise awareness and make sure every child has what they need to learn.

Build awareness: Serve as ambassadors—expand our digital footprint, champion CUES on social media, and share stories of impact across your networks.

Fundraise: Host a fundraising event or peer-to-peer campaign to help underwrite the cost to educate a student.

The Gathering 2025

Cheers to 50 Years!

With the theme, "Cheers to 50 Years," The Gathering 2025 honored five decades of commitment to CUES students and the communities we serve.

Led by event chairs Julie & Matt Kizer and Torey & John Reed with honorary chair, Nancy Abboud. The night set a new benchmark for generosity, surpassing $1 million in support for CUES Schools for the first time in the event's history. The record-breaking result reflects the conviction of our partners and friends who believe that every child deserves access to a high-quality, faith-centered education. We are deeply grateful to all who attended and contributed to an unforgettable milestone year.
